

CONSPIRACIES OF SILENCE AND THEIR IMPACT ON OUR DEMOCRATIC FREEDOMS

INTRODUCTION

Despite the stigma that's been deliberately attached to the word "conspiracy" our modern world is, in fact, run by conspiracies of one sort or another. Some conspiracies are more benign than others but all of them involve undue secrecy and the presumption that those involved have the right to influence the lives of others, without their knowledge or consent. Benign conspiracy can involve something as innocent as a surprise party but most conspiracies involve criminal intent, some as serious as a political/military coup or even a betrayal of the entire world's population.

The statute books mention conspiracy to commit murder, conspiracy to pervert the course of justice etc. However, because of the very nature of covert/secret operations only a small percentage of criminal conspiracies are detected and stopped. In fact, the worst culprits, covert government agencies (military and otherwise), can conspire at will, secure in the knowledge that official secrets legislation will hide any crime which they may commit. By declaring almost everything they do to be a matter of "national security" and getting others to limit the powers of watchdogs (like the Inspector Generals Offices) such bodies can do the dirty work for the criminal connections that direct them with immunity. That organized/corporate connection is similarly protected. Sophisticated technology plays a big part here. Offenders can access equipment that's not available to law enforcers and thereby commit covert crimes without detection.

Now, the basic human and civil right to privacy obviously should not be extended to the hiding of extensive criminal networks/activities but, equally, such offenders should not be able to monitor their detractors/investigators. Yet this also happens because the ruling elite (including politicians, businessmen, the media etc) band together to covertly conceal the biggest secrets (on surveillance technology etc) and destroy those calling for open discussion and legal reform re' those issues. These issues include real privacy and justice, who profits from war, social engineering, terrorism, the drug trade, the slave trade, piracy and much more.

Even for those influential people not viewing themselves as corrupt the problem of class isolation sees wealthy citizens believing that they know what's best for the rest of us. Yet they usually only discuss matters with their own kind and so have a limited scope of real understanding. For most their defensive, criminal responses to fair criticism/suggestion only confirm that they do not represent majority opinion. Some, in truth, live in a sort of moral/legal vacuum. In a fair and open society the whole notion of celebrity and propaganda hiding an underlying fascist attitude towards other citizens would be exposed and democracy restored. Yet freedom of thought and expression is currently being eroded because of secret corruption fostered by the ruling class. In brief, they have a common criminal mindset that says they have the right to support terrible secrets/crimes at the expense of the rest of us and they abuse their power to reinforce that. Conspiracies flourish as a result.

SECRECY AND SECRET SOCIETIES

Whether it's the corrupt element of an agency (the secret service, office of homeland security, DIA, CIA, NRO, NSA, NASA etc.), an organised crime body (like the media mafia) or any other secret organisation, the truth is that secretive groups rarely act in the best interests of the wider community. Their mission is to further the interests of themselves and their associates. If necessary, they'll do so at the expense of everyone else. Their plotting and planning is clearly undemocratic and when and where it impacts on the rest of us, it is usually unlawful. Unfortunately, the influence of secretive organisations is extensive. They control vast networks of people recruited from (or into) the ranks of MPS, Judges, journalists, entertainers, scientists, etc.

Aside from the official spy agency recruitment of many into the world of covert operations or crime, there's also the problem of club-like secret societies. Some of the better known ones are: The Skull and Bones Society, The Illuminati, The Bilderberg club, The Freemasons, The Bohemian Grove, OTO, The Rosicrucians, The Club of Rome, The Trilateral Commission, The Knights Templar and Opus Dei. Many (like OTO) gave birth to other societies like B'nai B'rith, The Hermetic order of the Golden Dawn, and the much maligned, celebrity stacked, Church of Scientology. Not only do these infamous groups ignore basic democratic principles but many are actively involved in immoral and/or systematically illegal conduct. In addition, many are satanic by nature; promoting evil, occult practices and beliefs. Now people know we already have corruptible political parties, professional bodies, movie/record studios, TV networks etc to worry about without having even more bizarre secrets being kept from the public. And that public have the right to know whenever their lives are being interfered with or manipulated. They should not be sold out by self-centered public figures.

The front groups just mentioned (entertainment outlets, political/business groups etc) provide the players on the world stage but the "scripts" are often prepared by agency personnel, secret society members, crime figures and other assorted evil doers who have been placed within their ranks or recruited once there. The degree of protection given to these manipulators (in return) by those they puppeteer in public life is particularly concerning when good people, who try to stop serious criminal conduct, are destroyed.

One example of a good person stopped in their tracks is Dr. Reina Michaelson, a well known campaigner against child sexual abuse here in Australia. Dr. Michaelson accused the OTO society of systematic pedophile activities only to be viciously and successfully silenced courtesy of our criminal friendly laws. Those laws, in particular racial/religious vilifications laws, like defamation laws in general, have been drafted by front men to protect themselves and their criminal associates from public exposure. They therefore facilitate the continuance of serious crimes, in secret. Horrible situations and horrific truths are hidden from the general public, thanks to such laws. In the case of pedophile networks, I think most citizens would be appalled to know the full extent of the problem and the role played by certain public figures as perverts and/or protectors of perverts.

Inaction on a problem like that is unforgivable and damning. In the case of Dr Michaelson, these front men were happy enough to award her for her good works at the outset but when the finger of blame was pointed at their associates, then it all changed. All too often the champion of a cause is stranded/isolated while others either actively oppose them or take two steps back when called on for support. It's disgraceful and pathetic.

While addressing the problem of group cowardice, it's notable that even the Catholic Church, ostensibly a moral stronghold which forbids the joining of any secret society under pain of excommunication, secretly runs its own Jesuit, Vatican spies, has the Opus Dei society etc. It has also (in the past?) actively hidden the pedophiles within its own ranks and been persuaded (with that fact used as leverage) to covertly attack good people; the enemies of their organised crime associates. I suppose for them, as with many others, it's true what the song says "we hold faith above all, unless there's money or sex involved". A mistake's one thing but a deliberate criminal act is another. So why do so many supposedly religious men choose might over right and assist wealthy /prominent persons to hide their crimes and victimise their detractors. The clergy should stand up and speak out for the millions/billions worldwide who are betrayed, oppressed, used and lied to by such criminals. Instead they cooperate with the criminal powerbrokers. But, you can't protect the flock by helping the wolves. That includes the mistaken belief that you have the right to throw them a sacrificial lamb or two by way of appeasement. If God's servants can't be trusted who is there to fight the good fight. Disempowered, marginalised citizens can only do so much.

CONNECTIONS BETWEEN OCCULT SOCIETIES AND CORRUPT AGENCIES

Earlier last century, certain members of particular occult societies were actively involved in establishing/developing covert government agencies (esp. in the USA). These agencies, in turn, protect the members of such secret societies from investigation no matter what the crime. For instance, one expert, Dr. Al Carlisle, estimates that there are 40 to 60,000 ritualistic killings carried out each year in the USA alone. Few offenders are ever apprehended. Why not?

Now, heaven forbid I should use the names of living criminals lest a crime syndicate or agency find yet another reason to harass me, so instead I'll refer to a few deceased "gentlemen". Firstly, Jack Parsons. He was an OTO leader working as a NASA Scientist. He called himself "The Antichrist Superstar" (a self proclaimed demon) and started the Process church, a body whose logo looks suspiciously like a Nazi Swastika (and many post war NASA recruits were ex Nazi scientists). Now, the Process church was an offshoot of Ron Hubbard's Church of Scientology which boasts many entertainers as members. Hubbard was himself an agent of US Navy Intelligence.

Another self proclaimed demon was Aleister Crowley who called himself “The Beast” (equally charming). He was an OTO leader and a British/American spy. Before him the OTO leader was Theodor Reuss, another agent; German. And so the pattern continues back. All spies. All scientists. All Satanists. In fact two others, Kenneth Anger and Anton La Vey, actually started a “Church of Satan”, which later gave birth to the Temple of Set, a society led by US Intelligence asset and psychological warfare expert, Lt Col. Michael Aquino.

This link to Aquino also provides a clear connection between the Satanists and those conducting illegal, involuntary, inhuman, mind-control experiments. NASA, DARPA, The CIA, NSA, DIA, defence contractors etc are all involved here. I’ve personally received emails/calls for help from 1,000s of victims of these experiments many of whom are devout Christians, Jews, Muslims, etc; good, God-fearing people abandoned to Satanic forces by complicit, acquiescing front men. Such men and women, driven by self-serving, uncaring lifestyles, will not cross their criminal masters to help thereby becoming accessories to their crimes. In truth, the promotion of egocentric lifestyles is part of the controllers’ plan.

In addition to illegal experiments and murder, other offences committed by these groups involve running networks of sexual immorality/criminality including child/adult prostitution, pedophilia, pornography, slavery etc. right up to snuff films and worse. As well as this there are drug rings, arms traders, criminal abusers etc. As a sideline to remote illegal experiments (involving the use of microwave, E-M, directed energy and psychotronic weapons) there is also the problem of mental slavery and theft of intellectual property through remote, powerful satellite surveillance and harassment. The more cruel factions within the mass media gleefully profit from this practice and enjoy the sport of criminally harassing the defenceless victims while they rob them.

Yet another element is the promotion of (and support for) the theories of those who challenge God in some way (e.g. Charles Darwin’s Theory of evolution) or those who facilitate distraction/discrediting (e.g. Sigmund Freud’s sexual preoccupation theories) or those who recommend the unethical/immoral lifestyles they want people to accept/adopt. It’s never a coincidence. It’s all part of their grand design and they use public figures to brainwash us, but first they brainwash their servants on the world stage...the public figures themselves.

PUPPETEERING

For many public figures a solitary vice or event can see them permanently used and silenced by those seeking to manipulate them. Some become so anti-social (despite their personable public “act”) and depraved that they actually enjoy violating the rights of those opposed to criminal activities which involve them and their associates. Many are chosen from the ranks of gangsters and ex cons to become celebrities.

This process starts with the vetting (by agencies and organised crime syndicates) of all persons of interest who could potentially become a public figure. They’re especially keen to monitor and then control vulnerable/corruptible people and herd them into entertainment/political/agency circles. As a start, often groupies and drugs are provided, a little bribery maybe...For those hooked and climbing the ladder of “success”, prostitutes, orgies, serious drugs and other soul destroying methods may follow (to tighten their grip).

These people are then used to lure/use others as the covert operators expand their field of influence/corruption. Those amongst the talented who are not corruptible but are prepared to tolerate corruption around them are kept on the fringe, fear and self interest ensuring their silence. Those who have totally lost their integrity will do almost anything they’re told; repeatedly and over a protracted period of time. Again victimising good people is their favourite pastime. Especially if they offer criticism of systems that support/reward them. It’s easier to attack the critic than address their valid comments.

Personally, I believe that the core of the problem is the egomania that tells a prominent person that they are somehow better than the rest of us. Their puppeteers recognise that celebrity worship is the key but that corruption and a lack of genuine care for others must also be fostered in these people to gain their active/prolonged cooperation. Despite all of this, every so often there’s a little bit of light in the darkness, a little ray of humanity that emerges from those they seek to manipulate. The light may be quickly extinguished but not before it’s seen by many...

A VOICE IN THE WILDERNESS

Examples of public figures who provided a ray of hope are few but well known. Sadly it usually ends the same way: Assassination/Murder. Recently, I heard a speech purportedly made in 1961 by one of these people, former US President John F. Kennedy. Apparently he was conducting an extraordinary press conference which has been kept a secret thanks to a treacherous media contingent. In this address, Mr Kennedy warned of the very real danger that secret societies would eventually take over the world by stealth. That wise warning has become today’s sad reality thanks to the inaction of those he asked for help: the media (mafia).

In his speech, entitled “Secret societies and freedom of speech” Mr Kennedy correctly said the following:

“The very word secrecy is repugnant in a free and open society”... yet we are “opposed by a monolithic conspiracy” that seeks to “censor news, stifle dissent and cover up...”

He concluded by saying that such activity restricts us and dims the hope that “man will be what he was born to be...free and independent” (ref: www.youtube.com/watch?v=ru4TbL8aweE)

This speech was a clear broadside at the secretive bodies that sought to govern the world (and now do). Agencies (military and otherwise), secret societies, corporate/political conspirators and more intertwine and cooperate to create a kind of corporate/military/political/media conglomerate that controls everything of importance. It is an undemocratic, evil network and Mr. Kennedy’s speech is the only one (that I’m aware of) that focused attention on their evil intentions. The speech has been dubbed “the speech that got Kennedy killed” and it may well have contributed to that due to the paranoid suspicions of those he was referring to. They may have believed that a subsequent naming of names and action may have curtailed their plans. There is also talk that Mr Kennedy was rejecting ideas presented to him at the time similar to 9/11; false flag operations. Those “investigating” his murder may have been involved as the same ones are said to have presented the 9/11 type scenarios.

On a personal note, I’ll add that I believe that those pursuing peace, truth, justice and the welfare of their fellow man will invariably draw attention from Satan and his servants. Both God and Satan work through humans. However, currently the balance is such that the “free and independent” future that Mr Kennedy dreamt of is far removed from today’s reality. So far removed in fact that even to express an opinion contrary to that held by the corrupt, ruling elite can meet with a severe and repressive/criminal response; especially if you’re knowledgeable /right about a secretive criminal practice.

This leads me to discussion of the number one tool of oppression used for silencing critics of high level crime/corruption/immorality...

JOURNO-TERRORISM

Over a period of nearly twenty years I have communicated with many media insiders, ex employees, experts and victims (people both publicly and covertly targeted) and I can confidently attest to the fact that the entire mainstream media is now owned and/or controllable by criminals; organised crime, agencies and more. In particular, conspiracies of silence surround their illegal/immoral surveillance and harassment tactics. The media is also well stocked with spy agency writers, executives and so on who can pick and choose roles and influence (whether planted or recruited from within) and puppeteer their co-workers. This results in misinformation, censorship of the truth and harassment of the honest citizens that they oppress; especially whistleblowers, honest commentators, writers, dissenters, true carers etc.

Again, 1,000s of victims have approached me for advice/help over the years. They can endure constant illegal surveillance in their homes/offices, audio/visual monitoring, brain wave monitoring and so on. The results can be computer relayed and subtly sewn into news and entertainment by agency/criminal writers to rob/ridicule/oppress their targets without risk of detection. This common practise intimidates, preoccupies, infuriates and bamboozles many targets in a criminal violation of basic human and democratic rights. Anyone approving let alone participating in a such a practise has a criminal mindset and is not fit to hold a position of authority/respect in society. Regardless, most in public life do keep this practise as a horrible secret...as if it's somehow acceptable. I suggest they try debating the rights and wrongs publicly and see how wrong they are and how quickly they are condemned.

So, a misled public, being unaware of the extent of these media crimes, is easily deceived by them. Take for example, the issue of the Iraq war. Once troops were committed, almost overnight all discussion of the involvement switched to the positive..."let's go", "lets support the troops" façade. Anyone suggesting otherwise was systematically victimised in a manner more akin to a fascist/Nazi state than the democracy that most military activity is meant to preserve. Dissenters were vilified, banned, or outed if public figures or covertly harassed if not. Sometimes covering nonsense about security threats or whatever would be used to shield those responsible for this murder of free speech but by and large it was all covert...Far from democratic such behaviour is, in fact, demonic...And lo and behold, now that the corruption behind the Iraqi situation is gradually being revealed its suddenly ok to speak against it...? So it's ok to be right but only when its fashionable and everyone else is allowed to agree with you...? Amazing. Again this is not a free, democratic society. Wealthy criminals operate outside the law without sanction and they can silence those daring to utter the truth by using secret organisations and secret technology to destroy them.

Also journalists/writers/presenters...can distance themselves from their victims (facilitated by high tech monitoring). This also allows them to delude themselves about their role and the defensive responses of their honest targets. For any covert victim wishing to go public (to get the truth out) talking with the corrupt media would be like sitting down to a fixed card game knowing you're going to be set up. They'll happily criticise a target over something as trivial as a personal weight, financial or other problem yet silence/edit criticism of some of the most heinous(mostly covert) crimes the world has ever experienced. This is what happens when criminals are allowed to buy up and control everything (especially the information that goes into our minds).

So, the media plays a crucial role in brainwashing the public but its contribution to conspiracies of silence is its major crime. More could be done in so many ways to inform the public but they refuse to do so; actively helping to cover up the truth. They favourably portray their criminal associates and use editing, half truths etc to deceive the public.

LAWS AND LAW ENFORCEMENT

Many laws are cunningly drafted to protect wealthy, influential criminals from exposure. Pedophiles, drug barons, war mongers and more hide behind legal procedures, defamation laws and corrupt or ignorant law enforcement officials. Anyone trying to help the victims is made to feel helpless themselves. Taxation laws, national security laws and much more are similarly biased. We abide by these laws but don't necessarily respect them as they are often there to legitimise criminal behaviour.

Equally, corrupt law enforcers and enforcement procedures don't help. Staff misallocations (e.g. focusing on petty criminals rather than serious, big time offenders), inadequate training (e.g. covert technology-assisted crime is not referenced properly); inadequate funding (a political consideration) and more are questionable. The AFP for example, are spread so thin that they're involved in everything from criminal record checks for job applicants in the health industry (apparently, we mustn't brand perverts/offenders but instead inconvenience everyone else working in nursing homes) right through to foreign peace-keeping in the South Pacific. Meanwhile, corporate fraud, human/drugs/arms trafficking, covert oppression, high-tech remote torture, murder and other serious local crimes remain at unacceptable (usually unrecognised) levels. Sure, every so often there will be a big drug bust or the successful investigation of a child pornography ring but it's never the big players that are caught. Again if we can't, as a society, even protect our young from sexual predators our system just doesn't work. The priorities are all wrong and the "too tough" arguments don't wash. We can put a man on the moon and create technology capable of monitoring every single person 24/7 but it's not used to prevent/stop crime...Why not? The answer is sickeningly clear. Because criminals do not want that and they are pulling the strings.

TECHNOLOGY ASSISTED CRIMES

An example of an entire category of serious crime that goes unpoliced is the crime committed remotely using satellite surveillance/harassment technologies. These technologies are made available to corrupt elements in the military, agencies, media and other corporations but agency psychopaths are usually coordinating the attacks on ordinary law abiding citizens.

Specifically, classified secret weapons exist which can track, monitor, scan, collate and disseminate information. Equally noises/voices can be directed at individuals using microwaves, laser-facilitated satellite neurophone technology etc. Also powerful satellite scanners and computer software with a brain wave vocabulary combine to allow mind rape. Then on top of these electromagnetic and psychotronic weapons arsenals there are also directed energy weapons that can cause radiation burns, heart attacks, cancers and other bodily afflictions. And it's all "top secret". The central figures for these are often military/CIA death squads, another reason people are afraid to help victims. Satellites in geo stationary orbit, placed deeper out in space, are at the heart of these problems. Their existence is, in itself, a classified/secret matter.

Now, specifically, because we all have an individual bioelectronic resonance frequency emanating from our brain and supercomputers that can process over 300 trillion calculations per second are involved, every individual detail about every single person can be accessed and used; including our thoughts. This information is made available to the criminal conglomerates that control the world. Their focus, of course, being the oppression of people who know of (or object to) their criminal empires. This is the harsh reality and this is why smug, wealthy criminals remain above the law. This is easily done because of the secrecy surrounding these methods. Theft of intellectual property is another reason for this.

On top of this, these technologies are used to run remote, illegal human experiments. Those involved include DARPA, The NASA and The CIA. The studies are centered around the surveillance and harassment of innocents who have drawn the attention of criminals associated with corrupt elements within the relevant agencies. Some studies are simply about controlling people remotely; using trickery, pain/torture etc. Some involve brain studies; how thought originates, how we theorise, idealise, form opinions, dream etc and how all of this can be influenced externally. Collecting, collating, processing and analysing brain wave results, even from sleeping time, is the function of the powerful computers which are themselves a well kept secret.

Other programs focus on using, humiliating and discrediting people that criminals want silenced. "Rejected" writers, "failed" entertainers, political critics, human rights campaigners and more can be set up in programs with titles like "Mindstar". Such hapless people receive mocking media feedback, neurophone voices, brainrapping etc 24/7 by way of lure or provocation in the hope that they'll be discredited when they seek help from medicos, police or others who don't know this sort of crime occurs. Approaches to those involved, like media identities, can lead to similar embarrassment when they deny involvement and treat the victim like a stalker rather than helping them. This sort of abuse is usually lifelong. Outspoken Christians (a favoured target) who are in this sort of situation will directly relate to Christ's instruction: "Pick up your cross and follow me!"

Re: "MINDSTAR: such a program can also involve covertly allowing the victim some influence so that the mental slavery aspect will continue to work. An example would be if a modestly talented but squeaky clean songwriter submitted lyrics to a publisher which offended powerful vested interest groups. The material would be rejected and he would be monitored. Anything else he produced would be stolen. Recognising this his anger would be tempered by curiosity about his influence, hope for his "release" and defensiveness. Eventually, growing tired of the unwanted attention, mockery and the increasing incidence of high tech' attacks on his person, he may approach a public figure who seems to be involved. Rather than seeking an end to the nonsense their hope is that delusions of grandeur will discredit the deceived victim. Industry insiders and countless victims that I've spoken with over the years confirm that this is a very common method for using and then disposing of decent people who approach the criminal world of entertainment in ignorance of its inherent corruption.

People leaving secret societies/cults or blowing the whistle on high level crime are similarly destroyed but usually placed in different programs. All have the lifelong, helpless sensation of being brain raped or violated with little hope of being believed let alone rescued. And like everything else criminal that's done in secret...if it was brought out into the light and publicly discussed all involved would be condemned so the secrecy continues...

ACCOUNTABILITY

The very nature of secrecy fosters misconduct and deception. Absolute power wielded in secret is a very dangerous commodity. So, once again, since secrecy has no place in a free, democratic society the more responsibility that an individual, group or organisation has the more accountable it/they need to be; to constituents, members, shareholders, the public etc. The most important example of necessary accountability is between a government and its citizens. Without it, ethics, fair play, justice, democracy and more are greatly diminished at the hands of criminals who freely abuse their positions. Unless you can guarantee the total honesty, integrity, wisdom, and good intent of those involved in a given system/situation NOBODY should be allowed to operate in a clandestine or unaccountable fashion. And since that guarantee is close to impossible total transparency is the only solution to high level crime. To say otherwise is to defend what is clearly indefensible and to place untrustworthy criminals in a position outside the law.

Those seeing these things and more are viewed as threats by those involved. To use the the age-old euphemism, such "businessmen" will delude themselves and the public (by faking sincerity) and try to paint their detractors as the villains in any warped, desperate way they can. There may be secret groups within (or intertwining with) other groups but overall they encompass the wealthy; the ruling elite. Local community leaders right through to world leaders fall into this overall group. They are still only a fraction of a percentage of the populous and should be accountable to us all yet their egos tell them it's about rule not service. As a result they are quite happy to see any critics silenced even by oppressive, terrible methods. Hence people speaking genuinely of real truth, peace, justice and more are reduced to victims of ridicule, mockery, illusion and cruelty. With these people destroyed by conspiracies of silence and personal vendettas lies can take the place of the truth which is often completely buried. Still, if you can't beat them, keep trying anyway, and so those of us with integrity invariably fight to the finish.

CENSORSHIP

To those unaware it can be hard to accept, but there are numerous truths hidden from the general public as war is waged against honest men and women by an evil, criminal element within the wealthy elite. The innocent are thereby marginalised and stifled and often the truth is the only thing that is censored. In the absence of proof these innocents can be branded as paranoid. Also most things that appear random are, in fact, orchestrated. Coincidences are rare. This is especially true of the mass media which is the link with the public and determines public opinion.

When a vocal minority pressurises those disagreeing with them to the point where they go silent the media have usually had a significant role to play. Through them, every counter argument becomes "intolerance" or "prejudice" as the minority gets its way by implying that discussion of their position rather than total acceptance is somehow wrong. What a pity there is more money in lies than the truth. Otherwise the truth could be democratically discussed. I say that if a minority's goals can stand up to public scrutiny why do they have to be hidden. Could it be that social engineering is easier in an environment where free speech is discouraged?

Any change to all of this can only be brought about if our systems of government, business and social order are opened and remain open. Honest people from outside those systems should be able to prompt those from within to have a change of heart. Currently a veil of secrecy impedes the process; clearly what the manipulators want. Again, it's a circular problem since people of integrity joining the system only end up becoming part of that system; supporting secrecy and corruption. So men and women of integrity remain outside by choice; theirs and their criminal enemies.

A CHRISTIAN PERSPECTIVE

Personally, I believe that Jesus Christ is the truth and that we should look for him in all things and that He will set us free. Of course, many powerful people, including the heads of many secretive groups, believe otherwise. Of such people Christ himself said "You are the children of your father, The Devil...The father of all lies...He who comes from God listens to God's words...You however are not from God and that is why you will not listen". This makes it frighteningly clear that, contrary to popular teaching, we are not all God's children. Some are beyond forgiveness/redemption. Some are actually of Satan himself. Satanists, like the heads of many of the secret societies mentioned earlier, would certainly be in that group having judged themselves. As for others, only God knows. However...

I also believe that you cannot operate secretly (in the dark) and abuse your position to betray and hurt your fellow man without facing some form of justice in this world and/or the next. Those rejecting the truth and those presenting it, those betraying their neighbours and violating their basic human rights...all of those are also guilty. By persecuting the innocent and deliberately misreading the truth of their intentions they seek to provoke believers; similar to the baiting experienced by Christ himself...Their false defences often involve mirroring accusations; mirroring guilt...

FALSE DEFENCES

If you question why your child is being exposed to sexually explicit material (even under the guise of sex education) that addresses homosexual lifestyles they'll falsely label you as homophobic...If you question why the Jewish powerbase in Hollywood persecutes/bullies Christian writers and producers they'll falsely label you as anti-Semitic. If you question why taxes are spent waging war, launching spy satellites (to be used against ordinary people) and so on they'll falsely label you as a dissident...If you question why drugs are readily promoted and why so little is really done to wipe out this scourge on society they'll falsely label you as fanatic, a wovser or whatever.

In other words, on every major issue the powerful minority will try to silence their critics and those they disagree with. The bullying moves into the area of criminality when covert methods are used to oppress those involved and censor the truth. Again, tormenting opponents for sport can be a lifelong crime for some especially wealthy offenders who sit above the law.

The simple truth is that the criminal minority rules the law-abiding minority by stealth more than open rule. This is in an endeavour to conceal the true Fascist/Nazi nature of our systems and to allow the myths of freedom of speech, privacy, democracy, equality before the law and more to be preserved so as to solicit public support and remove opposition. The things done in secret would not survive public scrutiny so official secrets nonsense, corporate privileges and more are used to hide the truth and how it is suppressed. The egos of ignorant professionals who want to believe they know everything (despite the suppression of information) provides another obstacle to getting the truth into people's heads. Yet relaying the truth is the only way to share it.

CONCLUSION

Much of what goes on in the world today is conspiratorially planned and hidden from the public by a veil of secrecy. Those learning of some of this will have their privacy stolen, their free speech stifled and suffer various forms of clandestine harassment.

The answers are clear: establish upon government, fair play in business, truth in reporting and accountability for all positions of authority or trust. The world would be a much better place without the secrecy of the sort discussed herein. The only valid argument against total transparency would be the need for secrecy to protect all citizens (not just the wealthy) and would include a guarantee that those preserving that secrecy were themselves incorruptible. Since this second part is impossible no honest argument can be presented for secrecy, especially on matters affecting all of us.

Wealthy criminals kid themselves that they provide the talent, brains and so on that generates our standard of living yet, like sports/drugs cheats waving a cup on the winners dias someone else could easily take their place. Who are they trying to deceive? They act/care only for themselves and just use others to get away with something or other. Gibberish about "protecting the public", who "needs to know" and who can "handle the truth" is transparent nonsense. Whether it's creating terrorist bogeymen or anything else, all major deceptions are wrong. Only the total truth will suffice and we, the public, have a right to it.

Again, since organised crime and agencies control the key positions, the spark for reform must come from outside our systems: i.e. from the general population. Some within our systems would also need to have a change of heart, realising that monetary / career success without integrity / humanity is meaningless. It's a case of the "haves" and the "will nots" finding some common ground. The major obstacle, media warping of the truth and suppression, are again significant. Also, the withholding of information used to manipulate celebrities is sickening, especially when it involves heinous offences such as pedophilia or murder. On top of that unbiased honest reporting seems to be a thing of the past and some of the biggest issues are not addressed at all. Removing the veil of secrecy would remedy that too.

Now another partial long term solution to all of these problems would be to teach ethics, morality and respect for others in our schools and universities. In that way future community leaders may act more responsibly / openly and may be more inclined to represent everyone not just themselves and certain vested interest groups. Honesty should be the norm, not an approach to use where convenient. Those involved in secret societies, criminal networks, clandestine groups and so on should be deemed unsuitable for public office or any other position of trust. Unfortunately all too often they are the very ones that hold these positions.

Once more, the motivation for any ethical shift must come from a backlash against corruption as instigated by the general public and those few in public life who privately wish for change but are too afraid to confront the criminals around them. So, community minded individuals both within and outside of public life must help to raise awareness and concern, regardless of the personal cost. Open and free discussion of all matters is the only appropriate, democratic approach and this will only be possible if secretive and conspiratorial methods are exposed and / or removed. In such an atmosphere minority viewpoints would not be able to dictate as they can now. Currently many minorities demand tolerance yet privately enforce agreement using covert, undemocratic and patently evil tactics to achieve their social engineering goals.

In Australia an enforceable Human Rights Act may help but other countries with such an Act, even a Bill of Rights, have the same problems; privacy invasions, psychological/emotional abuse (thanks to covert, high-tech attacks), a stifling of free speech, freedom of thought, expression, belief and religion AND an unacceptable inequality before the law. In reality people get the justice they can afford and so wealthy criminals often win out.

Defamation laws, racial/religious vilification laws and more obviously provide specific protection for criminals as well. As a result, free speech is suppressed using legal argument over common sense, reason and truth. Victims are denied justice and their advocates silenced. You can't legislate against opinions anyway but the only things that should be outlawed are genuine hateful statements that incite violence. Calling a criminal a criminal should not be punished for a lack of proof especially as the most heinous crimes are often the best concealed; being committed by those best positioned to act in secret.

Finally, expressing a view is not a crime but harassing someone (covertly or otherwise) for holding a particular view is a crime. The very notion of censoring the truth is itself abhorrent, but to tolerate the systematic silencing of concerned citizens through criminal conspiracies (employing secretive technologies / methods) is to accept undemocratic, illegal, corrupt behaviour on a horrifying scale. Such conduct should (and must) be opposed by any and all who believe in justice and fair play. Our human/democratic freedoms, including the rights to freedom of thought , speech and expression, our right to privacy and our right to God given freedom of choice (within the law) must not be repressed or removed courtesy of co – conspirators and others that, in fact, belong in prison. Proper enforcement of privacy laws and that part of the law relating to criminal harassment would be a start but there's much more that needs to be done.

It's up to all of us to do whatever we can to prevent the continuance of the heinous crimes that a fostered by conspiracies of silence.
